

“Murals of Tibet: Visual and Imagery and Symbolism in Tibetan Culture”

Professor Robert Paul
Candler Professor of Anthropology and Interdisciplinary Studies

Geshe Kelsang Damdul
Director Emeritus of the Buddhist Institute of Dialectics in Dharamsala, India

Dr. Lobsang Tenzin Negi
Executive Director of the Center for Contemplative Science and Compassion-Based Ethics

Professor Robert Paul, Candler Professor of Anthropology and Interdisciplinary Studies, will speak about the meaning and significance of the imagery depicted in the magnificent new Rose Library acquisition, “The Murals of Tibet.” This limited-edition book, signed by His Holiness the Dalai Lama, features life sized depictions of 1000 years of Tibetan masterpieces. Dr. Paul will be joined by Geshe Kelsang Damdul, Director Emeritus of the Buddhist Institute of Dialectics in Dharamsala, India and Professor Lobsang Tenzin Negi, Executive Director of the CCSCBE, will moderate the discussion. The book will be on display prior to the evening’s program.

Wednesday, March 20th 7:30-9:00 pm

Michael C. Carlos Museum Reception Hall

Emory University

Free and Open to the Public

Tibet Week 2019 is made possible through the generosity of:

The Center for Contemplative Science and Compassion-Based Ethics, the Michael C. Carlos Museum, Emory College, The Joni Winston Fund, the Hightower Fund, Trust for the Meditation Process, Drepung Loseling Monastery Inc., Gaden Phodrang Foundation of the Dalai Lama, the Yeshe Khorlo Foundation and the Pierre and Pamela Omidyar Fund.